SASKATCHEWAN RAISES CONCERNS ABOUT NEW ALBERTA BEER MARK-UP

Saskatchewan Deputy Premier and Minister responsible for the Saskatchewan Liquor and Gaming Authority Don McMorris said today that the Government of Saskatchewan is very concerned about changes the Government of Alberta recently announced to that province's beer mark-ups and to its incentives for local brewers.

"Alberta's new beer pricing and grant policy are a trade issue that could hurt producers and consumers in both provinces," McMorris said. "We have raised our concerns with Premier Notley's office and Premier Wall will be raising this matter again with Premier Notley at the Premiers' meeting in Whitehorse later this week."

Last Tuesday (July 12), the Alberta government announced that as of August 5, Alberta will move to one standard beer mark-up of $1.25 per litre regardless of company size, location, or level of production. The proposed change will also see Alberta provide grants to small, Alberta-based producers to support development of that province's industry.

"This policy change is bad news, not only for Alberta beer drinkers but also for all non-Alberta-based brewers that serve the Alberta market," McMorris said. "It will significantly increase the mark-up rate applied in Alberta to Great Western Brewing and other small Saskatchewan producers. This would mean higher prices and less selection for Alberta consumers, as out-of-province breweries will be forced to reconsider that market after having been placed at a significant economic disadvantage to their Alberta counterparts."
